MARQUARD CODDLES CUBS INTO SHUT-OUT

Allows Only Four Hits, and, Despite Three Errors, the Giants Win Easily.

CHENEY WEAK IN PINCHES

Clever Catches in Field Rob Both Teams of Chances to Score-Brush Stairway Opened.

Rube Marquard, the attenuated Thespian, coddled the Cubs into a shut-out at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon and led the Giants home in a canter to their fourteenth straight victory. Pitching with consummate artistry, Rube petted the treacherous ursine foe into a state of lamblike docility, not so much as a squeak being heard out of them through the whole nine innings. With only four hits to do business on, no inroads were made on the plate and the battle went into the record with the count 3 to 0. Since the Phillies dropped another to the Pirates, the lead of New York was increased to six and one-half games.

An overcast sky furnished a perfect setting for Ruben's bejewelled offerings and he had the visitors popping the pellet up for the altitude record most of the time. Only one clean rap was made by the Cubs, this being a smash to left field by Larry Cheney in the fifth. Burns misjudged a fly of Schulte's in the first, giving the runner a two-base hit, while both Chency and Evers got to Merkle's station on grounders that bounded in such a fashion that the infielders could not handle them. Although Marquard's control was perfect, two errors by Doyle and one by Fletcher, with four hits, enabled seven of the Cubs to get on. Only two got as far as second and one of these, Roger Bresnahan, was so elated by his success that he ventured on to third, where the ball was waiting for him, Burns to Shafer. Roger had arrived at first on an error and tried to react the far station when Chency hit the fence in left field. There were two out at the time, so the results of Bresnahan's explorative inclinations ended the frame. Evers tried to start something by scratching a hit through Merkle at the beginning of the ninth, but after Schulte lifted to Merkle, Phelan hit down the third base line and the combat ended in a flourish with a double play, Shafer to Doyle to Merkle. Cheney, who had lost only five games out of seventeen starts up to yesterday, pitched a fairly tight game, holding the champions to six hits. But his work in the pinches was not above suspicion. He made two wild pitches with men on the bags, one of which let in a run, while he was accessory before the fact to a passed ball by Bresnahan, which led up to a

The three hits which the Giants made in the first seven frames consequently Three more were bunched in the eighth for another tally. Cheney passed three men and fanned as many, while Marquard struck out six, getting Saler twice. Previous to the game, the presentation of the Brush stairway to the Speedway was made and the band lingered over the festivities on the battlefield. The Cubs were still without the services of Zimmerman and Bridwell, while Archer was unable to take up his duties behind the plate. This put a big crimp in the team. However, the visitors put up an airtight defence and played errorless ball. Corriden handled eight changes without a misplay, but managed to fumble nearly every grounder that came his way, making some fine recoveries to get runners at first. Fletcher and Merkle made a double steal on Roger, but that was all the pilfering that was done. This in itself was enough to win the game, however. Several catches of high calibre were seen. Snodgrass robbed Schulte of a hit in the sixth after a fascinating run, and Merkle captured a foul by Corriden in the fifth with rare skill. Tommy Leach's contribution on Fletcher's drive in the fifth was probably the most distinctive feat. The smash was labelled for at least three bases until Tommy pulled it down over his left shoulder. The umpiring of Rigler was an improve ment over that he showed on Tuesday, leading to the supposition that he was the second by a score of 10 to 6. The just having an off day when he incurred the wrath of players and spectators alike. While he did not reach the heights sometimes attained by Bill Klem on the local field, still his judgment was thoroughly acceptable.

The Giants scored a brace of tallies in the fourth. Fletcher led off with a clean single through short, and on a hit and from the box in the second game. run play Doyle rapped safely through second, Fletcher pulling up at the midway. He ventured to third, however, when Merkle forced Doyle at second and scored on a double steal, Bresnahan's high throw bounding out of Evers's hands.

Murray drew a pass and advanced with Merkle on a passed ball by Bresnahan. Then Cheney made a wild pitch, Merkle counting, while Murray took third. The latter was out at the plate when Meyers hit to Phelan and the chief was forced at second by Snodgrass.

After Burns had fanned in the eighth Shafer beat out a dribble to Evers and went to third on Fletcher's clean hit to centre. With three balls and no strikes on him, McGraw told Doyle to hit at anything he liked, so Larry smashed the first one Cheney put over the plate, through Evers for a hit, scoring Shafer. Fletcher took second on the hit, but was out. Bresnahan to Phelan, when he attempted to go to third on a short passed ball. Merkle fanned, ending the inning.

The students, however, were not the only guests of honor. Some 309 Cuban military and civic officials were on hand to watch the work of Armando Marsans and Rafael Almelda, the two Cuban players with the Reds. They found plenty to cheer over, too, for the boys from the island republic were leading factors in the victory of the visitors.

The fielding of Marsans was little short of phenomenal, and it was he who stood between the Superbas and the plate on several occasions. In the second inning Marsans raced back to the centre field fence and, looking over his shoulder, leaped high in the air to pull down with his bare hands a savage lick from the bat of Cutshaw. Two were out at the time, but Miller was on third and Moran on first, so two runs at least would have scored had the ball fallen safe. Later he "pulled" a sensational capture, coming to chind second base to take a low line from Hummel right out of the grass. On both occasions he was cheered to the echo. He did not confine his deeds to the field, however, for it was his single in the ninth that tied the score, and he himself counted the winning run on a single by his countryman, Almeida.

With one out in the ninth Josh Devore singled to centre field, and at once stole second base. Bob Bescher, who had a two of which were scratches, were made miserable time of it at the bat, struck out off Adams here to-day, and Pittsburgh of again. Marsans, however, found one to his liking and sent it whistling to centre field for a single, scoring Devore. He took second on the throw in, and when Almeida, who replaced Dedge, singled sharply to left centre Marsans scored,

If Marsans was in the limelight for his centre of the stage alone. Jake Daubert to bat for him in the eighth inning. made a wonderful play in the eighth inning which for the moment looked like a game saver. With Tinker on second and Groh on first, Tom Clarke smashed a wicked one down the right field line about a foot off the ground.

The runners started for the plate, but Jake threw himself out after the ball and speared it with one hand. Groh saw the play, and he and Daubert slid into the play, and he and Daubert slid into the bag together. Emslie ruled safe for arguing with Brennan, the umpire, Manser, p. 391 6 36 Tinker, however, was far around to third, thinking the hit safe, and when Fisher an over to second Daubert threw him the ball, completing the double play. Moran also made two or three wonderful catches, especially his capture of Clarke's fly to deep centre in the second inning. Clarke hit in hard luck, for three drives that were speared left the bat billed for the fence. Little Johnny Bates broke into the game as pinch hitter in the eighth inning. He joined the "Zach Wheat" club by knocking the ball over the right field fence for a home run, the third home run drive out of the grounds this season. The score follows:
